Now

April 2, 2023

The weather has turned cold, a little earlier than has been the usual in recent years. Constantly changing from shorts to jeans, walking with a jacket then without, jumpers on and off.

On Monday I travelled a couple of hours south to a client for a scheduled 1-hour training. In the end I spent a couple of hours with them. Took a different route home. "B" roads instead of "C" roads made a drive when I was tired, it was darkening and raining, easier. According to Maps, only a few minutes difference so that's the way I'll go in the future if I need to.

Currently watching on TV

My “TV” viewing this week was almost all just YouTube. Finished watching a 4-hour GT3 race around Nurburgring and the Australian F1 Grand Prix.

Currently gaming

I finished the Gran Turismo 7 campaign yesterday. The first time I've ever done so in a Gran Turismo game. Today I've ticked off some more trophies towards the Platinum trophy and partook in my first online races against others. As always Platinum will be a bit of a grind but unlike the previous version looks obtainable.

Hogwarts Legacy is progressing. I'm caught between playing the game and feeling like I'm watching the original couple of movies. So far, it's all training, and I have little agency as a player.

Currently reading

Don't expect too much here for a couple of weeks. Lord of Time (The Wheel of Time Book 6) is long and will take me a bit to read (just over 50% now). I finished Interesting Times as my audiobook. Curious how it finishes with a set up for The Last Continent. Pyramids has now been released and since it's book 8 of the Discworld series, I'll be heading back in the sequence for the next one.

You can see my full list of books, read, and wanting to read on my Goodreads page.
